MENTAL HEALTH ADVOCATE

Bruno spent 15 years with the Canadian Armed Forces, serving two tours in Afghanistan. He spent his second tour as a part of an anti-explosives team in Afghanistan; a busy outfit that dealt with more than 100 IEDs. Returning home, he realized that his own mental health was deteriorating.

A PATH TO RECOVERY

In 2014, Bruno was medically released from the Canadian Armed Forces. He completed a challenging expedition in the North Pole with the True Patriot Love Foundation.

The expedition (captured in the 2015 documentary, March To The Pole) was transformational, spawning Bruno's personal quest to advance mental health awareness through influence and exposure.

HIGH-PERFORMANCE CATALYST COACH

In 2013, Bruno opened his own fitness facility CrossFit Stasis, where he trained clients to achieve the best versions of themselves - physically, mentally and emotionally.

INVICTUS GAMES AMBASSADOR

In 2016, he took his coaching role a step further, leading a team of 30 ill and injured soldiers and veterans as Captain of Team Canada at Prince Harry's Invictus Games.
